

PURVA USER MANUAL

Thank you for purchasing Alexandria Audio Purva! Please read this manual carefully before using it.

Positioning your Purva

Please place Purva on a flat, rigid surface shelf / platform. Be sure the four rubber feet of Purva are centrally positioned in depth and width. The feet may appear as simple rubber, but we choose it for optimal performance. Do not adjust the torque of any bolts including the feet because we have also fine tuned the torque of each bolts for optimal resonance and its performance.

Step One

Connect an Ethernet Cable in between the recommended Network Switch; Netgear GS-108T and Purva. Just be sure there is no excessive strain on the Purva RJ45 Port. Then another Ethernet Cable in between the Switch and Wireless Router. Please Keep the Ethernet cable as short as possible with minimum length of 8.2 foot. Please separate the power strip for all of network devices as shown on the diagram above.

Step Two

Connect the USB Cables on the Purva Right Bottom USB Port on the back to your DAC.

Step Three

Connect The Power Cord of Purva in the Same Power Strip (Unfiltered) at the first position as show on the diagram above. We strongly suggested to use the supplied power cord and don't replace it with anything else. It's the best matching cord we've found for Purva. Please check the polarity between Live phase and Neutral is correct, not reversed. This will result in a weaker electrical field around the power supply inside Purva, which improves sound quality.

Ready to Use

Please turn on The Purva, when it has established a connection with your network, a short chime will play in your speakers.

Note:

1. Purva is accessible only from any iOS, iPadOS, macOS Control Point devices connected to the same local network
